

YOU ARE NOT LAZY —
YOU ARE DEPLETED

THE ENERGY REBUILD WORKBOOK

A Practical Reset for Women Who Are Doing Everything for Everyone — and Running on Empty

- ✓ Restore Your Energy
- ✓ Rebuild Your Strength
- ✓ Protect Your Peace
- ✓ Feel Like Yourself Again

◆ By NESHA TAYLOR

Founder • Genesis Fitness & Wellness

Certified Personal Trainer

• Nutrition Coach •

Women's Fitness Specialist

A Guided Wellness Workbook for Women Over 35

A GUIDED WELLNESS WORKBOOK FOR WOMEN OVER 35

For the woman who:

- feels constantly tired.
- is juggling work, family, and responsibilities.
- is trying to stay consistent with fitness, but feels exhausted.
- knows something feels "off" but can't explain it. This workbook will help you:

- rebuild daily energy
- reduce stress and support hormone balance
create routines that work in real life
- fuel your body in a simple, sustainable way
- reconnect with strength and confidence.

By Nesha Taylor

Certified Personal Trainer

Nutrition Coach

Women's Fitness Specialist,

Founder of Genesis Fitness & Wellness

Helping women rebuild energy, strength, and confidence at every stage of life.

DEDICATION

This workbook is dedicated to the incredible tribe of Genesis women who continue to give me my "flowers," remind me that I need rest too, and who show up for themselves even when life is demanding.

You inspire me every single day.

This is for the woman who is doing everything for everyone else... and who will read these pages and realize it is finally time to make herself a priority.

And to my sons — Taylor, Jalen, Jordan, CJ, and Cayden — who saw me pushing through exhaustion, depletion, and long seasons of doing too much, and loved me anyway.

Your strength, resilience, and willingness to grow is what makes this community so special.

— Nesha Taylor

HOW TO USE THIS WORKBOOK

This workbook is not meant to be rushed.

Think of it as a conversation between you and your body.

Some sections will teach you something new about stress, energy, nutrition, and recovery. Other sections are designed for reflection so you can better understand your own habits and needs.

Here are a few simple ways to get the most out of it:

- Move through the sections slowly instead of trying to complete everything at once.
- Write in the reflection areas honestly. This workbook is for you, not for perfection.
- Use the trackers to build awareness around walking, water intake, and daily energy.
- Revisit sections whenever you are feeling depleted
- Focus on progress, not perfection.

Small, consistent habits create powerful long-term change.

COACH NESHA ENERGY SCORE QUIZ

Before we begin, let's check in with your current energy levels.

Answer honestly, this is just for you.

In the last 30 days:

- ☐ I wake up tired most mornings.
- ☐ I rely on caffeine to get through the day.
- ☐ My workouts feel harder than they used to.
- ☐ I feel mentally overwhelmed often.
- ☐ I crave sugar or salty snacks frequently.
- ☐ I feel tight or inflamed in my body.
- ☐ My sleep is inconsistent.
- ☐ I feel emotionally drained by responsibilities.
- ☐ I rarely take time to recover or rest.
- ☐ I feel like I'm always "on" for everyone else.

Score yourself:

- 0–2 boxes → Your energy is fairly balanced.
- 3–5 boxes → Your body may be mildly depleted.
- 6–8 boxes → Your body is asking for recovery.
- 9–10 boxes → Your body needs serious restoration.

This workbook is designed to help you rebuild your energy step by step.

"A woman who protects her energy protects her power."

— NESHA TAYLOR

TABLE OF CONTENTS

A Note From Nesha	1
Coach Nesha Reflection	3

PART I: UNDERSTANDING YOUR ENERGY

Energy Builder 1: Understanding Depletion	6
Energy Builder 2: Movement & Walking	9
Energy Builder 3: Recovery & Mobility	11
Energy Builder 4: Stress Management	13
Energy Builder 5: Hormones, Stress & Your Energy	17

PART II: REBUILDING YOUR BODY

Energy Builder 6: Nutrition & Food Awareness	20
Energy Builder 7: Top 15 Foods That Restore Energy For Women	24
Energy Builder 8: Morning Routine (Why It Matters)	25
Energy Builder 9: Evening Routine (Your Body's Reset Button)	27
Energy Builder 10: Depletion Warning Signs	28
Energy Builder 11: Hydration	29

PART III: RESTORING YOUR LIFESTYLE

Energy Builder 12: The Energy Rebuild: 7-Day Step Up	32
Energy Builder 13: Weekly Self-Care Mantras	35
Energy Builder 14: Supportive Supplements	36
Energy Builder 15: Coach Nesha's Top 10 Energy Habits	37

WORKBOOK TRACKERS & REFLECTION PAGES

Genesis Daily Habit Tracker	39
7 Day Step Tracker	40
Daily Water Tracker	41
Daily Energy Journal	42
Energy Drain vs Energy Gain	43
Boundary Setting Exercise	47
Self Care Reflection Page	51
Nutrition Awareness Page	52
Weekly Reflection	54

CLOSING SECTION

Final Commitment	59
Final Words From Nesha	61
About Genesis & Coaching With Nesha	64

A NOTE FROM NESHA

My name is Nesha, and I am a certified personal trainer and nutrition coach who has spent years working with women of all ages, body types, and life stages.

Many of the women I work with have something in common:

They are walking around tired, cranky, depleted, unrested, tight, overwhelmed, and stressed, while still trying to make fitness and food a priority.

I understand this deeply.

Not only as a coach, but also as a woman.

I am a wife, mother, grandmother, business owner, coach, community advocate, and someone who constantly has many iron rods in the fire.

Even with all my knowledge about fitness and health, I still have seasons where I feel tired, stretched thin, and depleted.

So what does being depleted really mean?

It means your body is running on empty.

It means you're giving energy to everyone but not restoring your own.

It means your sleep, nutrition, stress, and recovery are out of balance.

When that happens, the body doesn't respond in the way we want it to.

Fat loss slows.

Energy drops.

Motivation disappears.

But here's the good news.

This is something we can fix.

This workbook was created specifically for women like you.

So come on in.

Let's talk for a minute and see if we can work something out together.

—Nesha Taylor

COACH NESHA REFLECTION

I remember when my older sons and their teammates were boarding the car for practice. I would be juggling football bags, coaches' bags, diaper bags, and trying to get everyone where they needed to be..

At the same time, I had CJ and Cayden both strapped into their car seats.

Everyone had what they needed.

Uniforms packed.

Gear ready.

Practice schedules handled.

But there was one thing missing every time. Food and water for me.

These days usually came after late nights of making lunches, washing uniforms, and cooking late-night dinners after practice, so the boys could at least have a home-cooked meal once or twice during the week.

Everyone was taken care of except me.

If you are a woman reading this, you know exactly what I mean.

This becomes a norm for many of us.

We learn how to live on limited , quick , bad food, or sometimes no food at all.

Little water.

Little sleep.

And very little energy left for ourselves.

We keep going because that is what women do.

But over time, that way of living slowly drains us.

This workbook is about recognizing the pattern and beginning to change it.

Not perfectly.

But intentionally.

Because you deserve to be taken care of..

PART I

UNDERSTANDING YOUR ENERGY

ENERGY BUILDER 1

UNDERSTANDING DEPLETION

Many women believe something is wrong when their energy levels drop.

In reality, the body is doing exactly what it is meant to do.

When stress increases, and recovery decreases, the body begins to protect itself.

Signs Your Body May Be Depleted

Check the ones that apply to you.

- ☐ I feel tired most days.
- ☐ I wake up already exhausted.
- ☐ My motivation for workouts is low.
- ☐ I rely on caffeine to get through the day.
- ☐ I crave sugar or salty foods.
- ☐ I feel mentally overwhelmed.

- ☐ My sleep is inconsistent.
- ☐ I feel tight and stiff in my body.
- ☐ My patience feels shorter than it used to be.
- ☐ My body holds weight easier than before.

Reflection Exercise

How long have you felt this way?

What do you think is draining the most energy levels from your body right now?

What is one thing you would love to feel frequently?

- ☐ Energy
- ☐ Calm
- ☐ Motivation
- ☐ Strength
- ☐ Better sleep

ENERGY BUILDER 2

MOVEMENT & WALKING

One of the easiest and most powerful ways to improve your energy levels, metabolism, and mental health is walking daily.

Walking helps:

- Improve fat breakdown.
- Reduce stress hormones.
- Improve digestion.
- Improve the heart's function.
- Increase daily calories burn.
- Improve mood.

Daily Walking Goal

- 8,000–10,000 steps if your goal is general health and activity
- 10,000–12,000 steps if you are more active and focused on fat

loss. Walking is gentle on the body but powerful for long-term results.

Your Current Step Habits

What is your average daily step count?

- ☐ I don't know
- ☐ Less than 8,000
- ☐ Around 10,000
- ☐ Over 12,000

Walking Reflection

Where could you add more steps into your day?

Example ideas:

- Morning walks
- Parking further away
- Walking phone calls
- Evening family

walks. Write one idea here:

ENERGY BUILDER 3

RECOVERY & MOBILITY

Many women push workouts but forget about recovery.

Recovery is what allows your body to rebuild and feel good again.

Recovery Includes:

- Stretching
- Mobility work
- Sauna
- Deep breathing
- Massage
- Rest days

Mobility Reflection

When was the last time you focused on stretching or mobility?

- ☐ This week
- ☐ This month
- ☐ I can't remember

How does your body currently feel?

- ☐ Tight
- ☐ Stiff
- ☐ Sore
- ☐ Pretty good

Write one recovery habit you could start this week:

ENERGY BUILDER 4

STRESS MANAGEMENT

Coach Nesha Reflection

I remember when I finally managed, after years of little to no fitness, to start working out again. I knew I needed it. I needed to feel strong again and do something that was just for me.

But like many women, I felt like I had to do it without disrupting anyone else's schedule.

So I started working out at 5:00 AM, before anyone in the house woke up.

I made sure I could get my workout done and still be at home on time to get everyone up, prepare breakfast, and start the day for the kids.

At that time, I thought I was doing something great for myself.

But what I didn't realize was that I was still carrying stress into that time .

I would rush through my workouts.

I would get frustrated if someone was using the equipment I needed.

I would feel irritated if the gym was crowded or if I felt like I was running out of time.

Even the time that was supposed to be "quality time for myself" became another thing I was trying to squeeze in and control.

Looking back, I realize something important.

I wasn't just tired.

I was stressed in every aspect of my life, even in the moments that were supposed to refill my cup.

A lot of women do this.

We squeeze ourselves into tiny spaces in our own schedule and call it self-care.

But real restoration is not rushed.

It requires slowing down, breathing, and allowing ourselves the time to actually recover.

Once I started recognizing that pattern, I began changing how I approached my workouts, morning, and expectations of myself.

And that shift made a bigger difference than any workout ever could.

Stress is one of the biggest reason women feel depleted.

Constant stress keeps cortisol high, which can cause:

- Increased belly fat storage
- Fatigue
- Poor sleep
- Sugar cravings
- Mood swings

Common Stress Triggers

Circle the ones that apply to you.

Work pressure

Family responsibilities

Overcommitting

Financial stress

Social media

Poor sleep

Lack of boundaries

Stress Reset Technique

When stress rises, try this:

1. Pause and take 3 slow breaths
2. Move your body for 5 minutes
3. Ask yourself:

"Will this matter in a week?"

Stress Reflection Writing

Which situations drain your energy levels the most?

Which boundaries protect your peace?

What are the activities that calm your nervous system?

ENERGY BUILDER 5

HORMONES, STRESS & YOUR ENERGY

As women move through their mid-30s and beyond, hormones begin to fluctuate more frequently. This is completely normal, but it changes how our bodies respond to stress, sleep, food, and exercise.

Two hormones play a major role in how you feel each day:

Estrogen – supports metabolism, mood, and recovery.

Cortisol – your primary stress hormone.

When stress stays high for too long, cortisol stays elevated, and when cortisol stays elevated, the body begins to protect itself.

This can lead to:

- Increased belly fat storage
- Difficulty losing weight
- Sugar cravings
- Poor sleep

- Fatigue
- Mood swings

Your body is not broken.

It is asking for restoration instead of more punishment.

5 Signs Your Body Is Stressed

These are early signals your body is asking for help.

1. You wake up already tired.
2. Your patience feels shorter than usual.
3. You crave sugar, caffeine, or carbs constantly.
4. Your body feels tight and inflamed.
5. You feel mentally overwhelmed even with small tasks.

If several of these occur, your body likely needs recovery, nourishment, and routine.

PART II

REBUILDING YOUR BODY

ENERGY BUILDER 6

NUTRITION & FOOD AWARENESS

Coach Nesha Reflection

Before I ever stepped on a bodybuilding stage, I never struggled with being overweight. In fact, I was the opposite.

I was what people call "skinny-fat."

You know these women.

They usually have smaller arms and legs, a naturally thinner frame, but the stomach seems to have a mind of its own.

This usually comes from things most of us don't realize are happening:

- Inflammation from quick-processed foods.
- lack of hydration.
- snacking on convenience foods.
- not eating enough protein.
- too many poor carbohydrate choices.
- too much fat because we think "I'm small, so it doesn't matter."

Thankfully, I've never been a drinker, but when alcohol gets added into that mix, it can make things even worse.

My body started showing me that nutrition wasn't, a priority to me.

And it always showed up at the worst times.

Getting dressed for a party.

Putting on a swimsuit on vacation,

or simply not feeling confident in my own skin.

That lack of confidence spilled into other areas of life; More stress,

More frustration,

More nights lying awake with my mind racing.

And because I had skipped meals or eaten poorly during the day, it often spilled into late-night snacking.

That cycle is extremely common for women.

We move fast all day long, taking care of everyone else, and food becomes an afterthought.

But when your body doesn't get the fuel it needs, it eventually pushes back.

Learning to nourish your body consistently, not perfectly, is one of the biggest shifts you can make for your energy, mood, and confidence.

Macros Made Simple (No Intimidation Allowed)

Many women hear the word macros and immediately feel overwhelmed.

But macros are simply the three nutrients your body uses for fuel.

Think of them like building blocks.

Protein

Protein helps:

- Maintain muscle
- Keep you full longer
- Support metabolism

Examples:

Chicken, fish, eggs, greek yogurt, protein shakes and turkey

Carbohydrates

Carb provide energy for your brain and muscles.

Examples:

Rice, Oatmeal, Fruit, Potatoes, Sweet potatoes and Whole grain breads

Healthy Fats

Fats help support hormones and brain health.

Examples:

Avocado, Olive oil, NutsSeeds, and Fatty fish

The Simple Plate Method

If counting macros feels stressful, use this simple plate guide.

½ plate of vegetables

¼ plate protein

¼ plate carbs

Add a small portion of healthy fats.

This approach keeps nutrition simple and balanced.

ENERGY BUILDER 7

TOP 15 FOODS THAT RESTORE ENERGY FOR WOMEN

These foods support metabolism, hormones, and energy.

- | | |
|-------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. Eggs | 9. Chicken breast |
| 2. Salmon | 10. Almonds |
| 3. Greek yogurt | 11. Lentils |
| 4. Sweet potatoes | 12. Brown rice |
| 5. Spinach | 13. Bananas |
| 6. Blueberries | 14. Cottage cheese |
| 7. Oatmeal | 15. Dark leafy greens |
| 8. Avocado | |

These foods provide a combination of:

- | | |
|-----------|------------|
| • protein | • vitamins |
| • fiber | • minerals |

All are essential for restoring energy.

ENERGY BUILDER 8

MORNING ROUTINE (WHY IT MATTERS)

For years, I did what many busy women do.

As a busy mom of 5 active boys, running businesses, coaching, and handling other responsibilities, my days were chaotic.

I didn't have a routine.

I just woke up and started moving.

Days turned into weeks.

Weeks turned into months.

I was exhausted.

My face was oily.

My hair started falling out.

My eyes looked tired.

Even though I was still getting things done, I felt horrible.

Yes, you can pour from an empty cup.

But that doesn't make it right.

When I finally created a simple morning routine, everything changed.

Energy improved.

Stress decreased.

And I felt like myself again.

Simple Morning Routine

Wake up

Drink 16–20 oz of water.

Take 5 deep breaths,

stretch or walk

Eat a balanced breakfast

Start the day calmly instead of rushing.

ENERGY BUILDER 9

EVENING ROUTINE

(YOUR BODY'S RESET BUTTON)

Your evening routine determines how well your body recovers.

Without a wind-down routine, the body stays in "go mode" all night.

A simple evening routine can improve:

- sleep quality
- hormone balance
- recovery
- mood

Simple Evening Routine

Turn off bright lights.

Limit screens before

bed. Stretch or breathe deeply.

Write down tomorrow's priorities.

Take magnesium or calming supplements.

ENERGY BUILDER 10

DEPLETION WARNING SIGNS

Depletion does not happen overnight. It builds slowly.

Here are signs your body may be running low.

Mild Warning Signs:

- You feel tired most afternoons.
- You rely on caffeine to function.
- Your body feels tight.

Moderate Warning Signs:

- Sleep becomes inconsistent.
- Motivation drops.
- Cravings increase.

Serious Warning Signs:

- Constant fatigue
- Mood swings
- Hair thinning
- Feeling emotionally overwhelmed.

These are signals from your body asking for restoration.

ENERGY BUILDER 11

HYDRATION

Many women walk around dehydrated without realizing it.

Even mild dehydration can cause:

- Headaches
- Brain fog
- Low energy
- Cravings

Water Goal

Aim for 1 gallon of water per day.

Tips to Drink More Water

- Start the morning with 20 oz of water.
- Carry a large water bottle.
- Add lemon or electrolytes.
- Drink a glass after every meal.
- Track your intake.

Water Reflection

How much water do you currently drink per day?

- ☐ Less than 40 oz
- ☐ Around 60 oz
- ☐ Around 80 oz
- ☐ Close to a gallon

PART III

RESTORING YOUR LIFESTYLE

ENERGY BUILDER 12

THE ENERGY REBUILD: 7-DAY STEP UP

Let's make this fun.

Instead of a strict challenge, think of this as a 7-Day Energy Rebuild.

A week to help your body feel human again.

Day 1 – Hydration Reset

Drink 80–100 oz of water.

Take a 20-minute walk

Day 2 – Protein Priority

Add protein to every meal.

Day 3 – Sleep Reset

Create a calm bedtime routine.

Day 4 – Move Your Body

Light strength workout or yoga.

Day 5 – Stress Detox

Limit social media.

Spend time outside.

Day 6 – Recovery Day

Stretch

Walk

Focus on mobility

Day 7 – Reflection

What improved your energy this week?

What habits do you want to keep?

ENERGY BUILDER 13

WEEKLY SELF-CARE MANTRAS

Use these throughout your week.

"Rest is productive."

"Fueling my body is not a weakness."

"My health deserves my attention."

"I do not have to do everything today."

"Taking care of myself helps me show up better for others."

Write your own mantra here:

ENERGY BUILDER 14

SUPPORTIVE SUPPLEMENTS

Always consult a healthcare professional before starting supplements.

Morning:

Multivitamin

Probiotic

Fish oil

Afternoon:

Electrolytes

Evening:

Magnesium

Ashwagandha (supports stress management)

Sleep support supplement

ENERGY BUILDER 15

COACH NESHA'S TOP 10 ENERGY HABITS

These habits are the foundation of long-term health and energy.

1. Walk daily

Movement is medicine. Even 20 minutes of walking can reset your nervous system.

2. Drink water first thing in the morning

Hydrating before coffee wakes up your metabolism and brain.

3. Eat proteins at every meal

Protein stabilizes blood sugar and supports muscle.

4. Protect your sleep

Sleep is where hormones rebalance, and recovery happens.

5. Stretch your body

Tight muscles create fatigue and tension.

6. Take mental breaks

Five minutes of quiet can completely reset your nervous system.

7. Limit unnecessary stress

Not everything deserves your energy.

8. Fuel your workouts

Under-eating is one of the biggest causes of fatigue in active women.

9. Breathe deeply

Intentional breathing calms the nervous system.

10. Protect your peace

Your environment matters for your health.

Reflection:

Which of these habits could improve your energy levels the most?

GENESIS DAILY HABIT TRACKER

Track the habits that restore your energy.

Habit	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Walked / Movement
Drank 80+ oz of water
Ate Balanced Meals
Stretch / Mobility
Took Quiet Time
Slept 7+ Hours

7 DAY STEP TRACKER

Use this tracker to monitor your movement.

Day	Steps	Energy Level	Notes
Monday
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Friday
Saturday
Sunday

Daily step goal:

- ☐ 8,000–10,000
- ☐ 10,000–12,000

DAILY WATER TRACKER

Goal: 1 Gallon Per Day

Check a box for every 16-oz glass.

☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

Morning Energy Level (1–10): _____

Evening Energy Level (1–10): _____

How did hydration affect my energy levels today?

DAILY ENERGY JOURNAL

Date: _____

Morning Energy (1-10): _____

Mood Today:

☐ Calm ☐ Focused ☐ Tired ☐ Stressed

What I did for my body today:

☐ Walked ☐ Strength trained ☐ Stretched ☐ Drank water ☐ Ate balanced meals

What helped my energy levels today?

What drained my energy levels today?

One thing I will do differently tomorrow:

ENERGY DRAIN VS ENERGY GAIN

One of the most powerful things you can do for your health is to become aware of what gives you energy and what drains it. Many women constantly pour energy into responsibilities, people, and obligations without noticing what restores them.

Use this exercise to identify where your energy is going.

Things That Drain My Energy

Examples:

- Overcommitting
- Poor sleep
- Negative conversations
- Skipping meals
- Social media overload
- Stressful environments

Write your personal energy drains:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Things That Restore My Energy

Examples:

- Walking outside
- Quiet time
- Prayer or meditation
- Good sleep
- Healthy meals
- Time with positive people.

Write your personal energy builders:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Reflection:

Which one energy drain can you reduce this week?

Which one energy builder can you increase?

Silver Fox Moment: Aging & Energy

One of the most powerful lessons I have learned about energy actually came from my Silver Fox ladies.

These women are in their 60s, 70s, and beyond, and many of them move with more consistency and gratitude than women half their age.

One morning during a group walk, one of the ladies looked at me and said something I will never forget.

She said:

"Nesha, when you get older, you realize energy is everything. You stop wasting it on things that don't matter."

hat stuck with me.

Because younger women often think energy will always be there.

But the truth is, energy becomes more valuable as we age.

The Silver Foxes understand something many women learn later in life:

- Movement keeps you alive
- Community keeps you motivated
- Protecting your energy keeps you strong

Their example is a reminder that caring for your energy today is one of the greatest gifts you can gift your future self.

BOUNDARY SETTING EXERCISE

Coach Nesha Reflection

I remember a season at Genesis where I was saying yes to almost everything.

Extra classes.

Extra meetings.

Helping clients outside of scheduled time.

Answering messages late at night.

Showing up early, staying late, and constantly trying to make sure everyone felt supported.

At first, it felt good. I care deeply about the women I work with, and I truly love what I do.

But after a while, I noticed something.

I was starting to feel drained.

Not because the women at Genesis were doing anything wrong, but because I had stopped protecting my own energy.

One evening after a long day at the gym, one of my Genesis ladies said something that stuck with me.

She looked at me and said,

"Coach... you tell us all the time that we need to protect our peace. Are you doing that for yourself?"

That question hit me.

Because the truth was, I wasn't.

I was pouring into everyone else, but I wasn't creating boundaries for my own time, rest, and recovery.

So I started making small changes.

I set clearer times for communication.

I protected my recovery days.

I reminded myself that helping others doesn't mean sacrificing my own health.

What I realized was this:

Healthy boundaries don't push people away they help you show up stronger for the people who matter.

Many women struggle with this because we feel responsible for everyone.

But protecting your energy is not selfish.

It's necessary.

Many women feel depleted because they feel responsible for everything and everyone.

But protecting your energy is not selfish — it is necessary.

Healthy boundaries protect your time, energy, and mental health.

Signs You May Need Stronger Boundaries

- You say yes when you want to say no.
- You feel resentful after helping others.
- You rarely prioritize your own needs.
- You feel emotionally drained by certain people.

Boundary Practice Exercise

Think about situations where your energy gets drained.

Where could you create a healthier boundary?

Example:

"I cannot take that on right now."

"I need to focus on my health this week."

"I will get back to you tomorrow."

Write one boundary you could begin practicing:

How would protecting this boundary improve your energy?

SELF CARE REFLECTION PAGE

This page is for you.

Write freely.

What areas of my life currently feel overwhelming?

What responsibilities could I delegate or reduce?

What activities help me feel calm and grounded?

How can I protect more time for myself each week?

NUTRITION AWARENESS PAGE

Use this page to become more aware of your eating patterns.

Breakfast:

Lunch:

Dinner:

Snacks:

How much protein did I eat today?

Did I drink enough water?

What could I improve tomorrow?

WEEKLY REFLECTION

At the end of each week, ask yourself:

What improved my energy levels the most this week?

What habits felt the hardest to maintain?

What am I proud of myself for this week?

What will I focus on next week?

Coach Nesha 10-Minute Energy Reset Plan

Some days you will not have time for a full workout, perfect meals, or a full self-care routine.

That is real life.

But even on busy days, you can still reset your body and energy in 10 minutes.

The 10-Minute Reset

Minute 1–2

Drink a full glass of water and take 5 slow, deep breaths.

Minute 3–5

Move your body. Walk, stretch, or do light mobility work.

Minute 6–7

Eat or plan your next balanced meal (protein + carbs + healthy fats).

Minute 8–9

Step away from your phone and take a quiet time to reset your mind.

Minute 10

Ask yourself one question:

"What does my body need right now?"

Small resets like this protect your energy throughout the day.

Emergency Depletion Reset

If you are feeling completely burned out, overwhelmed, or mentally drained, your body is asking for a reset.

Use this simple protocol to help your system calm down.

The 24-Hour Energy Reset

- Drink more water throughout the day
- Eat simple, nourishing meals (protein, vegetables, healthy carbs)
- Go for a 20–30 minute walk outside.
- Reduce social media and unnecessary stress.
- Stretch your body before bed.
- Prioritize 7–8 hours of sleep.

Think of this as pressing the reset button on your nervous system.

Your Personal Energy Blueprint

Now that you have worked through this workbook, take a moment to create your personal plan.

My Top 3 Energy Builders

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

My Top 3 Energy Drains

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

My Weekly Energy Plan

Walking goal:

Water goal:

Sleep goal:

One habit I will protect each week:

This blueprint is your reminder that your energy is worth protecting.

FINAL COMMITMENT

Real change does not happen because you read something inspiring.

It happens because you decide that your energy, health, and peace matter enough to protect them.

This workbook is not about perfection.

It is about awareness.

Small improvements.

Better habits.

And learning how to take care of yourself so you can continue showing up for the people and life you love.

Take a moment and commit to yourself. My energy matters because:

One habit I will begin improving immediately:

One thing I will stop allowing to drain my energy:

One way I will take care of myself this week:

Signature: _____

Date: _____

FINAL WORDS FROM NESHA

If you have made it all the way to the end of this workbook, I want you to pause for a moment.

Take a breath.

Because the woman reading this right now is already doing something powerful.

You are paying attention to yourself.

And for many women, that is the hardest step.

For years, many of us have learned how to be everything for everyone else.

The strong one.

The responsible one.

The one who keeps things moving.

The one who shows up even when she is tired.

The one who holds everything together.

But somewhere along the way, we quietly started putting ourselves at the bottom of our own list.

This workbook was never about becoming perfect.

It was about becoming aware.

Aware of when your body is tired.

Aware of when your stress is rising.

Aware of when your energy is being drained.

And most importantly, aware that you deserve care too.

The strongest women I know are not the ones who never get tired.

They are the women who learn when to slow down.

They are the women who learn how to nourish themselves.

They are the women who protect their peace.

They are the women who rebuild themselves when life has taken a lot out of them.

You do not need to overhaul your entire life tomorrow.

Start small.

Drink more water.

Go for the walk.

Eat the meal.

Take a breath. Protect your time.

And permit yourself to restore your energy.

Because when a woman is well rested, nourished, and strong. She becomes powerful in a completely different way.

And that version of you deserves to exist.

Thank you for trusting me to walk through this with you.

Keep rebuilding.

—Nesha Taylor

Founder, Genesis Fitness & Wellness

ABOUT GENESIS & COACHING WITH NESHA

Genesis Fitness and Wellness was built on one mission: helping women become stronger, healthier, and more confident at every stage of life.

My coaching style is supportive, realistic, and rooted in education. I believe women deserve to understand their bodies, not punish them. My programs focus on building strength, improving energy, and creating sustainable habits that last.

At Genesis, we train and support women across multiple stages of life.

(Genesis Legacy)

A mentorship and fitness program for girls ages 8–18 that teaches confidence, movement, and healthy habits early in life.

The Everyday Woman.

Our core community of women ages 18–60 who are balancing careers, family, health, and personal growth while learning how to take care of themselves again.

The Silver Foxes.

An incredible group of women 60+ who prove every day that strength, movement, and community do not have an age limit.

Through group training, coaching, and wellness programs, Genesis continues to support women in building strong bodies and strong lives.

To learn more about our programs or coaching opportunities, visit:

www.genesisfitnessandwellness.com

