

Zark is a story of a young bear catapulting into an extraordinary transformation. Injected with experimental cells by a renegade alien scientist that cause him to be able to reason and telepathically read other animals' thoughts, he changes into an uncontrollable monster. He kills people, animals, and in the end, aliens. Leaving a path of terror and destruction across Alaska. A tracker, Jake Ross, is called on to capture this creature for a research lab.

The climax of the story ends in a collision of Jake, aliens, military, and Zark in a remote valley where all participants' destinies are changed forever. This is a fast-moving tale of Sci-fi, horror, humor, and touches of tragic romance that may be in progress today.
